The Science of Health!

Every Man his own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

—AND—

Holloway's Ointment.

Disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The stomach is the great center which influences the health or disease of the system—abused or debilitated by excess—indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostration are the natural consequences. Allied to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The Liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, etc. The bowels sympathize by costiveness, diarrhœa and Dysentery. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent. To these the Ointment is especially antagonistic; its modus operandi is first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years' standing, that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions of the Skin,

Arising from a bad state of the blood, or chronic diseases, are eradicated and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to dispel rashes and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints,

Whether in the young or old, married or single at the dawn of Womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible in the health of the patient. Being a purely vegetable preparation. They are a safe and reliable remedy for all classes of Females in every condition of health and station of life.

Piles and Fistula.

Every form and feature of these prevalent and stuborn diseases is eradicated locally and entirely by the use of this emolient; warm fomentations should precede its application. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, burns, chapped hands, chilblains, fistula, gout, lumbago, mercurial eruptions, piles, rheumatism, ringworm, salt-rheum, scalds, skin diseases, swelled glands, sore legs, sore breasts, sore heads, sore throats, sores of all kinds, sprains, stiff joints, tetter, ulcers, venereal sores and wounds of all kinds.

CAUTION.—See that the words "Holloway, New York and London," appear as a watermark on every leaf of the book of directions which enfolds each box or pot. No others are genuine. A handsome reward given for information leading to the detection of counterfeiters of the medicines and venders of the deceptive articles, knowing them to be such. Sold at the manufactory, No. 80 Maiden Lane, and by druggists and medicine dealers throughout the world. A great saving by taking the large sizes. Full instructions with every box or pot. f6-1y

The Village Church.

BY ELIZA COOK.

The village church is passing gay;
The bells gush out in merry tune;
A flag is o'er the turret gray;
The porch hold all the flow'rs of June,
For youth and beauty come to wed,
With bounding form and beaming eye
With all the rapture love can shed,
And all the hope that gold can buy;
And children twine, with noisy glee,
White favors round the cypress tree.

An old man sitteth on a grave;
His steps no more are firm and fast;
And slenderly his white locks wave,
As breeze and butterfly go past.
A gentle smile lights up his face,
And then he turns to gaze around;
For he has come to choose the place
Where he shall sleep in hallow'd ground—
"Just by yon daisy patch," saith he,
"'Tis there, 'tis there I'd have it be."

The bridal hearts in triumph glow,
With all the world before them yet;
The old man's pulse beats calm and slow,
Like sun-rays, lengthening as they set.
They see the fancied hours to come,
He sees the real days gone by;
They deem the earth a fairy home,
He thinks it well that man should die.
Oh, goodly sight!—it should be so—
Youth glad to stay—Age fit to go!

Mr. and Mrs. Tipps and their Seven Children.

My wife has always wished to begin housekeeping; and I had always thought that, considering rent and other things, the mode of living would be too expensive, and that, considering the quantity of work it would involve, it would convert my wife into a drudge. She, however, persisted, and so at length I yielded. I found a white frame house, of two stories, in a nice neighborhood. I furnished it tastefully, yet economically, and we moved in and settled down.

"Now," said Fanny, sinking into a rocking-chair in the pretty little drawing-room, and taking a long breath, "I am at last home." And she looked such a picture of contentment that I rejoiced.

We put everything in order and got along very well after a rest following the first few days of tiresome work. The second week of housekeeping was delightful. I look back upon it and think what Paradise must be. Fanny got through her work with ease and right speedily; and, after appetizing and healthy meals which I would find awaiting me when I got home, we would sit down and chat. After supper we would spend our evenings together in the cosy drawing-room, talking and laughing, or reading aloud, or I would take her on my arm and we would sally out to some lecture or other entertainment. That house was our castle, where no one could molest us or make us afraid.

I do not think we were selfish. We began to feel the need of company now and then at our table and in the drawing-room; and so we came to invite friends to tea and to spend the evening. And I remember the pleasure it used to afford me to have our friends come in and partake of our hospitality. It does still. "It does us good," Fanny says. "So it does," I responded. "Hospitality, under the regulation of reason is what I hope will always exist in our family."

But—but I will tell the story.

Four or five weeks passed thus. One day the door-bell was rung, and Fanny opened the door. A stout, elderly lady, in spectacles, stood on the steps, with a bulky carpet-bag in one hand and a reticule and a band-box in the other. She looked up at Fanny and smiled upon her through the spectacles. The smile was bland, sociable and resolute.

"You don't know me, I guess," said the stranger, lifting a foot and planting it on the threshold as though to come in and settle down; "Mrs. Wilson, I believe; Fanny Wilson, rather; I may call you Fanny. I am your cousin—your fourth cousin—"

"Come in," said Fanny.

The stout lady entered our drawing-room, and put her luggage on the sofa and sat down in the rocking-chair. Fanny, clad in her housekeeping attire, sat down in a straight-back chair near.

"Your grandfather's wife," continued the lady, "was my grandmother's sister-in-law. Old Uncle Peter Brisker—you know him?"

Fanny could not say that she did know the old gentleman.

"Well," continued the visitor, now removing her bonnet and shawl, "old Uncle Peter Brisker was your father's—let me see—your father's great uncle. Won't you give me a glass of water, Fanny?"

My wife brought the glass of water.

"I declare," said the visitor, "it does seem good to sit down and rest. I heard you had gone to house-keeping, and thought I would run down and pay you a little visit, since we are cousins. I waited till you might get well settled first."

"How may I address you?" Fanny inquired, while a vague apprehension stole into her mind.

"Lor', now, I haven't told you my name!" exclaimed the newly-found relative. "I am your cousin, Mrs. Tipps."

Fanny excused herself for the present, and went down to the kitchen, thinking what on earth could have brought Mrs. Tipps to our house, and how long Mrs. Tipps was likely to stay.

"Don't show her any room," I exclaimed when I got home and Fanny had told me.

"Hush!" she cried, "I must."

"She will settle down with us if you do," I protested.

"We must show her ordinary politeness," said Fanny.

I went up stairs to the drawing-room. Mrs. Tipps received me with a hospitality smiling and resolute enough to have made me believe that I was her visitor in her own house.

She got upon the topic of relationship; and this topic she sounded to its remotest depths, and daily rang the changes of it during the visit with which she favored us.

After getting comfortably settled and at home in the course of a week, during which period of time she was occupying our best spare chamber, and passing the evening invariably in our drawing-room, she informed us at the tea-table that her husband was expected that evening with the children.

I laid down my knife and fork and sat back in my chair and looked at Mrs. Tipps, and then glanced at Fanny. The water stood in Fanny's eyes.

"Then you are not a widow?" I said to Mrs. Tipps.

"Lor', didn't I tell you?" she exclaimed, smiling on me through her spectacles.

"How many children have you?" I next inquired.

"Seven."

"And all are coming with Mr. Tipps?"

"You see," she explained, "we thought we would shut up the house and visit a while till we might find a boarding-place to suit us. I havn't found one yet that suits me."

Fanny rose from the table and beckoned me to come out into the kitchen. I followed her, and we held a council.

"With her here alone," she said, "our butcher's and grocer's bills are running far beyond the limits required by ourselves. She is an enormous eater. And when he comes with those seven, what shall we do?"

She looked up into my face with an expression of distress.

"And your work has increased, Fanny," I said.

She sighed. I got desperate. Yet I was bewildered. Some way of escape must be found. I took my hat and ran over to a friend's house, where I had not visited much since I began house-keeping.

The door was opened by a girl with a strange face—an American girl. I saw a piece of carpet was pinned around her waist, and in one hand she held a dirty, shaggy cloth.

"Is Mr. Manners in?" I inquired.

"Yes; come in. Don't stand there all night. Come in, if you are coming. If you ain't, clear out, and I'll shut the door."

This mode of address, strange as coming from a servant, had perhaps caused me to stare at her, and linger a little.

"Show me where he is," I said.

"Find him yourself," she snapped. "I can't stop to show folks where folks are. I can't leave my work. Go yourself and find him. He is down stairs smoking. He smokes up the house so nobody can breathe. Well, go and find him, if you are going."

I found Frank down stairs, smoking, just as the girl had said. I did not stop to talk about incidental matters. An idea was working in my brain and the business on my hands was important. I did not soon set down. I stood before Frank and put my talk in an excited way.

"How about that servant girl of yours?" I asked.

He laughed. "So you've encountered her," he said, "and she has given you some of her impudence. Never mind. I am about to discharge her to-night. I've held on to her three days longer than I intended to, because she is such a stunner at work. Wife says she never saw her like as a worker. But her tongue! We can't possibly stand it."

"Call her down here," I said. "I'll hire her." Frank stared. "I mean it," I said. "I'll take the shrew off your hands. Call her down."

Frank called her down. She came and stood stormily just over the threshold outside.

"What do you mean, to call me from my work?" she demanded in a shrill tone. "I can't be taken from my work at everybody's beck and call in this way. I'll see if you'll do this again; that you shall know."

Frank laughed in her face and smoked on.

"You are a good worker, ain't you, Sal?" he said, bantering her.

"I'll let you know whether I am." She gave the door a shove, and it was being dashed to when I sprang and stopped it.

"Come in, Sal," I called. "I want to see you. How much wages do you want? How much do you pay Sal?" I asked of Frank.

"Ten dollars; and we only get tongue in return."

"I'll give you eleven, Sal," I called. "Will you go with me?"

"No, I won't!"

And she slamed the door to and went off. I turned to talk with Frank.

"Turn her off," I said; "then she will come."

But the door was pulled open again in a few minutes. Sal stood there.

"Where do you want me to go?" she asked.

"Over to D—— street."

"I can't go over there alone."

"I pitty the ruffian who would venture to molest you," I retorted.

In ten minutes she entered the room, dressed, baggaged, and cross.

When we reached the house, I found a condition of things before which I stood appalled. Mr. Tipps had arrived with three trunks and seven boys. The trunks were piled up in the hall; the boys and Mr. Tipps were at the table. Every crumb was gone and every plate scoured. Eight ravenous faces were turned to greet me. Mr. Tipps rose from his chair and shook me hospitably by the hand. The seven young Tippses gave me no welcome whatever, and only sat and stared at the empty plates as though waiting for more. My wife sat dejected. I looked at her.

"I have brought help," I said to her, significantly. She looked at Sal in wonder.

"I s'pose ye think you're going to be my mistress!" was the spiteful salutation which she first got from Sal. "I'll just tell you, if you don't tell me where I am to put down my things, you can't do much with me. You may just know that first off."

"Fanny," said I "show Sal to her room, won't you?"

Out in the hall, I explained matters. Sal took off her things, laid down her baggage, and tripped down stairs in a jiffy. The Tipps family were still at the table. Fanny and I waited outside and listened. Sal's first salutation was a rough one.

"What are you waiting here for? Haven't you had your supper? I should think so, from the way you've eat up everything. You must be a set of gormandizers. Get up."

"We want some more," we heard one of the young Tippses say.

"You want some more, you brat, you? I just tell you, you can't have any more; and, if you ain't up from the table in just no time at all, I'll box your ears for you."

There was a clinking of plates and a stirring of chairs and feet, and Fanny and I ran up stairs to the drawing-room, ready to burst with glee.

We heard the Tipps family come tramping up the stairs, the whole possession of them. They entered the room, Mr. and Mrs. Tipps looking at us with a hurt expression, which, of course, common politeness led them to suppress as much as possible, and yet make us acquainted with their grievance.

"Be seated," I said, politely; and the whole family settled in the chairs around us, like so many hungry boarders, ready to make complaint.

"The girl"—began Mr. Tipps, with a preliminary ahem, and crossing his legs in paterfamilias style.

"That girl," said Mrs. Tipps, "is rude to the boys. Would it not be well—ahem—to discharge her?"

"Well, no, I think not," I replied.

"She would not get us anything to eat," put in one of the seven boys, sulkily, and the whole family then looked to us for an explanation of that act of rudeness. But they got no explanation, and in the course of an hour the boys got sleepy, and were conducted to bed, the seven being accommodated with two beds in one room, Such was the plan.

That girl Sal had conceived a special grudge against those seven boys. I knew that before they went up stairs under their mother's care. They encountered Sal on the threshold of the room, she ordered them back. They tried to force a way in. She just stood her ground and cuffed them, one after another, until they all beat a retreat, with their mother, and came running down to the drawing-room again.

"She is crazy," I remarked, "but she is such a good worker that I am willing to risk being murdered by her."

"Murdered!" exclaimed both Mr. and Mrs. Tipps, in a breath.

"She is just off trial," I answered coolly, "for murdering a whole family. She was acquitted on the ground of insanity."

"And you intend to keep her?" asked Mr. Tipps, rising from his chair, and viewing me with a look of awful rebuke.

"I intend to keep her, and to restore her to her senses," I replied.

"There," said he; "we shall not stay in this house. Wife, get ready. We will go from your house to a hotel, sir. There we shall be safe."

"Perhaps that course would be best," I replied.

We had the satisfaction of seeing the Tipps family depart from our house that very hour.

As to Sal, we endured her a month.

THE LIVE MAN.—The Live Man iz like a little pig; he is weaned young and begins to root arly.

He iz the pepper-sass of creation—the allspice ov the world.

One Live Man iz like a case ov itch at a district skool—he sets everybody tew scratching at onst.

A man who kin draw New Orleans molasses, in the month of January, thru a half-inch auger-hole, and sing "Home, Sweet Home," while the molasses is running, may be strictly honest, but he ain't sudden enuff for this climate.

The Live Man iz az full of business as the conductor of a street kar—he iz often like a hornet, very bizzy, but about what the Lord only knows.

He lights up like a cotton faktory, and haint got enny more time to spare than a skool boy haz Saturday afternoons.

He iz like a decoy duck, always abuv water, and lives about 18 months during each year.

He iz like a runaway hoss, he gets the whole of the road.

He trots when he walks, and lies down at night only bekause everybody else duz.

The Live Man is not always a deep thinker; he jumps at conclusions just as the frog duz, and don't alwus land at the spot he iz looking at.

He iz the American pet, a perfect mystery tew foreigners; but haz dun more (with charcoal) tew work out the greatness ov this kuntry than enny other man in it.

He iz just az necessary az grease on an axletree.

He don't alwuz die ritch, but alwus dies bizzy, and meets death a good deal az an oyster duz, without enny fuss.

A GREAT GRAZING COUNTRY.—The Virginia Enterprise, of February 23d, says: "A gentleman just from Elko says that the region of country surrounding that place is the finest for grazing purposes that he has seen in the State. He says no finer or sweeter beef can be found anywhere in the world than that upon which the Elkoites daily feast. The bunch-grass is in many places three feet high, and loaded down with seed. The seed of this species of grass is said to be more nutricious than barley, and horses and cattle are very fond of it. There are immense herds of cattle scattered through the country. Major Bradley, formerly of Stockton, California, has 15,000 head of cattle in that region, scattered about in droves of from 1,000 to 1,500 head. The hills for miles and miles are said to be alive with cattle—there are literally "cattle upon a thousand hills." The White Pine folks need fear no scarcity of beef."

PRIMITIVE BEDS.—The White Pine fever has extended to the Atlantic States, and many are the queer stories going the rounds of the Eastern press in regard to the new Silverado. A Southern paper in speaking of the accommodations, tells the following: "The lodging-house business in the White Pine country has not passed the stage of incipiency. The keeper has for capital a supply of short iron hooks and a number of sacks of gunny matting. The applicant for lodging is hung up in one of these sacks attached to a tree by a hook. The landlord has nothing further to do but to keep alive the fires he kindles beneath these primitive beds and receive his rent in the morning."

A NEW ORLEANS policeman, before light the other morning, came upon a stranger pacing before the station-house, and on inquiry, found that he had been doing the same all night, waiting for a lady. "She's a good while in coming, ain't she?" said the officer. "Yes; but, poor thing, she ain't to blame; they've got her locked up there," pointing to the station, "and as soon as she gets out, we're going to get married. She's got a lottery ticket, and I found out last night it had drawn a pile. She's no idea of it, you know."

THERE is good reason why a little man should never marry a bouncing widow. He might be called "the widow's mite."

Unmasking.

The Sacramento Union, undoubtedly the highest Radical authority on this coast, is preparing to unmask the designs of its party already confessed by the recent action in Congress to make all men free and equal, so far as voting is concerned.

Replying to the Grass Valley National, the Union says, speaking of the Chinese, "We do know that they are as honest as any other class of people on the coast," and then, after going on to show that the white race on this coast are very low, vile, felonious people and not to be compared to the Chinese for average honesty and morality, the Mongolian advocate proceeds to tell us that the Chinese are "a race whose civilization, literature and history are older than, if not quite as vigorous as our own." Proceeding in this strain, the writer becomes historical and philosophical, and informs us that it is no new thing for superior races to attempt to curtail inferiors; that this was attempted by the Knights and Barons of the ages preceding the French Revolution, who held very low opinions of the common whites, and that after a deluge of blood, this mistake was corrected, just as the recent civil war has corrected our ideas in the United States and compelled us to know that a man of any race is just as good as a man of any other race. The writer of all this is rabidly Radical and probably believes what he says; so that while we must accord him the dubious credit of being sincere in his fanaticism, we, who look upon these things from a Democratic point of view, must take issue with the matters both of fact and theory thus stated, even if their falsehood and absurdity are too plain for argument. In the first place the statistics of crime and the testimony of legal experts and detectives utterly disprove the Union's assertions and show that an honest Chinaman is almost a physical impossibility. Secondly, the intimation that the late civil war in the United States arbitrated the question of the equality of all races, is untrue in point of fact, and is contradicted by the very illustration given by the Union; for, according to its own showing "the common whites" of the French Revolution were a portion of the same dominant race they made war upon. The Union cannot give any illustration to show that the Caucasian race anywhere has relapsed from civilization back into barbarism; nor can it point to more than one single instance in which an inferior race has moved forward in the scale of progression, and that instance is where the negroes of the slave States, under the control of "slave drivers," improved upon the barbarism of their African ancestors.

Then, again, there is nothing so doubtful, nothing so ill-sustained by proof, as the assertion that the civilization, literature and history of the Chinese are older than ours—and by ours we mean the civilization, literature and history of the white race.

Again, when the Union covertly pokes at us the "deluge of blood" which may be provoked by an attempt to hold the Chinese in the inferior and unequal position intended by the Democrats, the threat is regarded as either idle, or one that ought to cause its utterers to tremble at the consequences which might ensue if the Mongolians should attempt to act upon the hint thus thrown out. The Union virtually says to us, and to the listening Chinamen, don't try to keep the Chinese out of their privileges of full equality and citizenship; for if you do, there will be a deluge of blood; but remember we don't desire this, nor suggest it! But, nevertheless, gentlemen of the Union, you do say it, and you evidently desire it.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Western Monthly, a magazine published by Reed & Tuttle, Chicago, and for which W. E. Loomis, corner of Sansome and Washington streets, San Francisco, is the California agent, comes to us in the strong freshness of its first number, a perfect feast in literary gems. The Chicago people have been much talked about for their enterprise and some other things; but in this matter of a magazine, each single number of which composes a delightful and valuable book of the most interesting character, the wonder is, how they are going to keep up this splendid literary and scientific offering for the low subscription price of $2 a year. The names of Humboldt, Louis Blanc, Landor, and others equally distinguished, appear on its pages, in articles which rivet the reader's attention and remain treasured among the valuables in his memory. We predict for it a popularity, not only in the great West, but everywhere, which will make it the rival of Harper's and the Atlantic.

OVERLAND MONTHLY.—This home Magazine, of which Californians are justly proud, comes to our table filled with matters peculiar to California and worthy the attention of readers in every country. The present (March) number shows no diminution in the aggregate talent and ability foreshadowed from its initial number. Californians, who wish their people in the old States to form a good idea of our people and State, cannot do a better thing than to send $4 to the publishers, A. Roman & Co., San Francisco, and direct them to send it by the year to the old folks; or, better yet, to the young ones back there who do not know us and who cannot realize how the leading State of the Pacific is marching forward.

Special Correspondence of the Democrat.

Letter from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9, 1869.

I do not propose to write about public men, Congressmen and such, for they are very much like other men, having all the infirmities and weaknesses of mankind in general. Perhaps they are worse troubled with weakness than any other class of men. The climate of Washington is very debilitating in a moral sense, and a term in Congress has weakened, if not entirely obliterated many a man's faith in himself and in the honesty and integrity of the whole world of mankind. If these representative men lie and cheat, receive bribes, legislate for fees, either paid in hand or contingent, act in their legislative capacity as attorneys for monopolies and swindling corporations, isn't total depravity a possibility? If the people only knew one-half of the corruption, one-half the wickedness, one-half the rascality of which the men are guilty whom they have elected to rule over them, they would—well I guess they would vote for the same men at the next election, if they were "regularly" nominated.

RAILROADS.

Camden and Amboy runs the government of the State of New Jersey, the Central Pacific Railroad, with a little assistance, runs the governments of California and Nevada, and the Central and Union Pacific Companies come pretty near running Congress at the present time. No more lands or subsidies are to be given to railroads. The immaculate Washburn says the Government must economize; that we owe much money; we must save our means; we have been too liberal and a stop must be put to such extravagance as has been practiced in the past. That sounds well, and I don't suppose one of your readers would suspect that Washburn is acting in and for the interest of the two above named railroads—of course not! These roads have all they want, all they ever asked for, and are opposed, very naturally, to the construction of other lines which would divide the traffic and travel which must pass over their roads and also compel them to reduce their exhorbitant rates to within reasonable limits. These railroad men are smart, and very wisely conclude that it is cheaper to run Congress than it is to run against an opposition road. The whole thing is very simple when you once see it.

SUFFRAGE.

The House has passed Boutwell's amendment to the Constitution, granting the right of suffrage to all persons, without regard to race or color. The Senate will also pass it, and the requisite number of States may ratify it, but I think not. If they should, John Chinaman will, of course, become a "man and brother." There was a time when "to be a Roman citizen was to be greater than a king," and all of us were once proud of our title of American citizen. How is it now? and how will it be when every biped may legally claim the same title and the same privileges? Most of us, I apprehend, will be willing to sell our patent of nobility at a very low figure.

PATRIOTS,

Who are willing to serve their country as Collectors, Assessors, Indian Agents, District Attorneys, and in any way for a consideration, are still arriving from the Pacific Coast. Among the latest is Frank Pixley, who would like to be U. S. Attorney, and who may be; but if Harvey Brown were here to look after his interests he could get the place. All Californians outside the "ring" which is being formed, favor him, and he has friends inside. They say "Pixley is rich and don't need it; both are alike capable, but Brown deserves it, and it would be a benefit to him and he ought to have it. Pixley ought not, in this matter, to place himself in opposition to Brown." E. G. Waite is here and will write to the Sacramento Union. Ezekiel Wilson arrived by the last steamer, evidently with a view of enlarging the sphere of his usefulness. Ewer, of the Scientific Press, is also in town.

THE RING

Is not yet thoroughly organized. Gorham wants to capture Sargent, and Bill Carr is delegated to do the job, and it would not be surprising if he succeeded. Sargent is not very wise, and I predict that he will be caught, committed, rendered powerless, and then kicked out, a living witness of the folly of placing a man of circumscribed intellect and small capacity in a position which should be filled by a full grown man. Cole is quiet; he has little capacity to do and no courage to dare anything. It is now thought that Gorham will be Collector of San Francisco. Charley DeLong has a better thing practicing law at White Pine, and Gorham, though holding one of the best places in the Government, is ambitious of succeeding Cole, and he would like to be at home to look after things. There will very likely be a clean sweep of the Federal offices in California. Rowland has been Postmaster at Sacramento two full terms; long enough, and he will probably retire without grumbling. When Conness' term expires, (unless he goes into the Cabinet) Briggs, Collector of the Fourth District, having no friend at Court, will be set aside to make room for a man more noted for vulgarity in conversation than for his Chesterfieldian politeness and gentlemanly deportment.

THE CABINET,

Notwithstanding the persistent efforts of newspaper correspondents, is not yet made up. Grant smokes and makes no confidents. He knows, probably all about it, and no one else knows anything about it. This reticence of the General is exciting ill-feelings amongst those who hoped and even expected to rule the new Administration. In the meantime Grant smokes—of all the rumors about him there is but one that is reliable—the General does smoke. He attended divine service at the Presbyterian church on Sunday last. After service he assisted Mrs. Grant to her carriage, and extracting a cigar from his vest pocket, inserted it in one corner of that grim, big mouth, and leaning upon the arm of a gentleman, walked off. He did not light it.

A. A.

WARNING TO PRE-EMPTORS.—James W. Shanklin, Register of the U. S. Land Office at San Francisco, publishes a warning to pre-emptors who settled upon odd sections within the lands reserved for the Western Pacific Railroad before January 30, 1865. He says: "All purchases made of Charles McLaughlin of lands so settled upon, are in direct violation of law and office instructions, and will, whenever discovered, be reported. No patent for such lands can legally issue to the Railroad Company. All such sales are a fraud upon the Government. The man who sells, as well as the man who buys, had better take warning in time."

WAR MEN.—The Solano Herald, a weakly concern under the management of O. B. Powers, is badly afflicted with rebel on the brain. The fellow was one of those who were unable to get to the front in time to do any fighting, but makes up for lost time by hunting out the miserable rebels and making it hot for them now at this late day. In his last number he turns loose upon our local notice of the anniversary of Washington, and after a sneer at what he calls our lamentations, says:

Considering that the writer referred to has spent some years of his life (and for ought we know, has shed his blood) in fighting to destroy the fabric reared by Washington and his compeers, it is not surprising, perhaps, that he is so feelingly alive to the decline of the virtuous patriotism which marked the earlier periods of our history.

Now, friend Powers, don't you know that we, the local of this paper, who wrote the article you so unmercifully criticise, were just like yourself during that terrible war; that, like yourself, we felt military, yea, bloodthirsty, but always got exceedingly cool and quiet whenever anybody was around hunting for warriors to go to the front? We were both warriors, in soul and theory, but our strong passions and our ardent longings for the fields of carnage, were always restrained within the bounds of prudence and safety whenever we thought of the immense danger a fellow might incur by going upon any of those battle fields. No, Mister Powers, neither of us shed any of our blood or had our precious noses skinned during the war; but if we had been just a little bit more aroused, and if the sleeping lions which dwell in the bosoms of two such warlike natures, had been just a little more aroused, both of us would have burst into the ensanguined arena and—and—on account of timid people, the ladies and children, let us not relate what else we would have done. It is sufficient to state that where the battle raged fiercest, neither of us were present—neither the gentleman of the Herald nor the local of this paper, and that both are now safe and in good health. It will also do to state, that there were several of us who were unable to attend when the country wanted fighting men and could get along without talkers.

SACRAMENTO ELECTIONS.—Our neighbors of the village of Sacramento have been having a good time during the past week selecting tickets for their ensuing municipal election. The working men—and they are a host in Sacramento—seem already to have unequivocally declared for A. Henley, one of their own men, prominent and favorably known; while the ultra Radical element seems divided between Swift and Green, both strong men. But the most interesting feature of this contest is the fact that after all their talk about the Crawford system and against the old corrupt system of rings and conventions, the Sacramentans have gone into the matter in such a manner as to exclude both the Crawfordites and the Conventionists from having any voice. In the meantime we see by the Reporter that the Democrats are going to work to nominate their man in old-fashioned way.

Since the above was in print, the wire-workers have nominated C. H. Swift, for First Trustee; McClintock, for Auditor; Leonard, for Collector, and Crowell, for Assessor—the whole a Long Hair triumph over the Short Hairs. On First Trustee the Swift men won by seven votes majority, and the whole thing is said to have been an elaborate and artistic piece of adroitness, strangely at variance with the virtuous professions of both wings of the "truly loil."

COTTONWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT.—The Cottonwood District, comprising one of the richest agricultural sections of the county, is yearly becoming more thickly settled by active, energetic farmers who are enriching themselves from the bounteous yield of their crops, and improving and beautifying their homes in a manner that reminds one of the plantations and settlements of the older States. It is gratifying to know that while they are engaged in these pursuits, the important matter of education is not neglected. Schools have been maintained in the district which would have been a credit to any community, and the youth of the district seem to have profited under the instruction of their tutors. Recently it has become necessary to make more extensive arrangements for the accommodation of the pupils, and the trustees and patrons with a commendable spirit have already raised the necessary funds for building a new school house. The building will be a substantial frame, neatly finished and furnished with the best style of school furniture. The work has been contracted for, and is now under way. The Census Marshal reported sixty-two school children in the district last year. At the present time the number is much greater and there is a good prospect for a flourishing school.

FINE CROPS.—In no part of the county are the prospects better for a fine yield of grain crops than in Capay Valley. This beautiful farming locality and good stock range has long been known abroad as "The Canyon," but a glance at the broad acres, covered with thrifty grain, and the hillsides covered with luxuriant feed for stock, is sufficient to convince one that the appellation is a misnomer. In the valley there are from seven to ten thousand acres in cultivation, capable of yielding an average of forty or fifty bushels to the acre. The high hills on either side of the valley are a protection against injury of grain by the heavy Spring and Summer winds that often affect seriously the farmer's prospects on the plains.

DRAINING—The valuable results to be attained from a system of draining in low lands have been most satisfactorily illustrated in the vicinity of Cottonwood and Buckeye. Last year the experiment was first tried in that neighborhood by J. A. Price and J. S. Tutt, who dug a canal, several miles in length, through their low lands. Hundreds of acres were thus reclaimed and made to yield from forty to fifty bushels of grain per acre. The example has been followed by a number of neighbors with the most gratifying results.

WOODLAND PARK ASSOCIATION.—This joint stock association, on Monday, appointed E. Giddings, J. C. Ball, L. B. Ruggles, Geo. W. Brown and J. L. Gandy a special committee to report at a future meeting, of which notice will be given, the results of an active canvass now going on for money and members. We understand that the list already counts up subscriptions to the amount of several thousands of dollars and that the project is still popular.

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of a call, on Wednesday last, from our friend John D. Yost, the well known typo, who, for a while, eschews type-sticking to act as the General Superintendent of Agencies for the California Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company. Mr. Yost has a habit of being first-class in whatever he undertakes.

RAILROAD.—We have reports that a perfect fleet of wagons, or, as our informant calls them, mud-schooners, have been put to work by the Railroad Company on the Davisville end of the route to Woodland, and that the symptoms are very strong that they will put in an appearance very soon at this end of the route.

STAGES.—During the past week, as the roads are becoming settled, we hear of several adventures in the passenger carrying line. Our advertising columns will show that the "common carriers," as the law terms them, are getting ready for the spring travel.

PROFESSIONAL CARD.—We call attention to the business card of Messrs. Jones & Carey, advertised in to-day's issue. The numerous Yolo acquaintances and old-time friends of Mr. Carey can find him in Latham's building, No. 53 J street, Sacramento.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—At the last called meeting the Committee on Organization was allowed an additional week in which to make further examination.

DISTRICT COURT.—This Court meets, for its March term, on Monday, the 15th inst.

PACIFIC MUTUAL.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that C. W. Bush, Cashier of the Woodland Bank, has been appointed resident agent for this excellent Company. In this connection we may also mention that the report of the Company to the Insurance Commissioner, December 31st, presents one of the most favorable showings ever made by any Company in the United States—being a larger business than that done by any Company in the same period, (eight months.) The insurance effected during this period amounts to the wonderful sum of $1,841,400, and the total expenses incurred to organize and carry out this business has only been a fraction over 29 per cent., far less than that of any other American or European Company during the first year of existence. Here, then, is what our people have long been seeking—safety, economy, and fair dealing; a Company within our own borders, of which all can have a personal knowledge; a Company composed of our most sterling and energetic citizens, among whom will be recognized the names of John D. Stephens and I. S. Childs, residents of our county. Those who wish to insure—and certainly all should—will have no occasion to regret having associated themselves with this sterling institution, the agents of which can be consulted at any time, and are ready to present the subject in a clear, concise and intelligent manner and are not given to hypocritical cants about philanthropy and other sickening twaddle. Who ever imagines any truth in the statements of those who claim to be traveling about the country representing that they are only doing it for the good of the human race, and who receive money for contracts they well know can never be fulfilled? When you apply for an endowment policy in the Pacific Mutual you must pay for it, and then you will get what you desire, and not have something else palmed off on you, when it is too late to discover your error.

EXODUS FOR WHITE PINE.—Quite a number of our citizens are making preparation for a prospecting tour in the White Pine District. Messrs. Goode, Burnett, Ragsdale, De Witt, Kenyon, Ford and others will start to-day. We wish the party a prosperous journey.

SUPERVISORS.—The Board adjourned Wednesday till April 5th, after a session of three days. See an account in detail of its proceedings in another column.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

[From the new "Dominion."]

At this season, when coughs and colds are so prevalent, an effectual remedy, and one easily obtained, is Perry Davis Vegetable "Pain Killer." It is no new nostrum, vended by unknown agents, but has stood the test of over twenty years, and those who use the article, internally or externally, will connect with it grateful recollections of its worthy inventor.—[Hastings' Chronicle, C. W.

PAIN KILLER.—The testimonials borne to the efficacy of this valuable medicine are sufficient to warrant its introduction in every house. Our own opinion is that no family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour. In flesh wounds, aches, pains, sores, etc., it is the most effectual remedy we know of. A bottle will last for a very long time, and its low price places it within the reach of all.—[St. John News.

We are glad to learn that the "Pain Killer" is having so large a sale in our city. We have every reason to believe it to be an almost never failing cure for pain, and a medicine that no family should be without.—[Montreal Pilot.

"BY THIS SIGN YE SHALL CONQUER."—When the Emperor Constantine adopted his famous battle symbol, he wrote beneath it in hoc signo vinces—"By this sign ye shall conquer." The same inscription might properly be affixed to another sign which is the symbol of thousands of successful battles with the bodily ailments of mankind. "S. T. 1860 X." the trade mark of the famous Plantation Bitters, typifies more victories than Constantine the Great ever dreamed of. Victories over dyspepsia, nervousness, general debility, biliousness, fever and ague, despondency, constitutional weakness, and a hundred other disorders and disabilities of both sexes to which the heathern assailants of the Eastern Emperor were a mere bagatelle. Whenever an invalid sees the emblem, let him take the hint it is intended to give him, purchase the elixir, and conquer his complaint.

TO HEADS OF FAMILIES.—Are your little ones subject to croup? If so, don't fail to use NEWELL'S PULMONARY SURUP. A few doses given in time MAY SAVE THE LIFE OF A DARLING CHILD. Do not fail to have it on hand, if you would be safe and free from anxiety.

"IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR WAR."—So get a bottle of DR. E. COOPER'S UNIVERSAL MAGNETIC BALM, an unequalled preparation for Dysentery, Diarrhœa and Cramp. The instantaneous relief for Burns, Bruises and Sprains.

The Reasons for Insuring

—IN THE—

NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL

Life Insurance Company,

OF BOSTON.

By the Acts of Massachusetts, incorporated into the General Statutes of 1860 and 1864, a Policy of Life Insurance for the benefit of a Married Woman, or any person or persons specified, goes to them independently of the debts and liabilities of the party who effects the policy.

An Act to Regulate the Forfeiture of Policies of Life Insurance.

Be it Enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1.—No Policy of Insurance on Life, hereafter issued by any Company chartered by the authority of this Commonwealth, shall be forfeited or become void by the non-payment of premium thereon, any further than regards the right of the party insured therein to have it continued in force beyond a certain period, to be determined as follows, to-wit: The net value of the policy, when the premium becomes due and is not paid, shall be ascertained, according to the "combined experience" or "actuaries'" rate of mortality, with interest at four per cent. per annum. After deducting from such net value any indebtedness to the company or notes held by the company against the insured, which notes if given for premium shall then be canceled, four-fifths of what remains shall be considered as a net single premium of temporary insurance, and the term for which it will insure shall be determined according to the age of the party at the time of the lapse of the premium, and the assumptions of mortality and interest aforesaid.

SECTION 2.—If the death of the party occur within the term of temporary insurance covered by the value of the policy, as determined in the previous section, and if no condition of the insurance, other than the payment of premium shall have been violated by the insured, the company shall be bound to pay the amount of the policy the same as if there had been no lapse of premium, anything in the policy to the contrary notwithstanding: provided, however, that notice of the claim and proof of the death shall be submitted to the company within ninety days after decease; and provided, also, that the company shall have the right to deduct from the amount insured in the policy the amount at six per cent. per annum of the premiums that had been forborne at the time of the death.

YOLO COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

Paddy to his Mistress.

Arrah, Kitty, I love you to madness,
I swear by this cross, o'er and o'er—
If you let me, I'll kneel down with gladness,
And your beautiful self I'll adore;
The ancients, we're told by Herodius,
Used to worship cowld statues of stone,
Then, surely, less guilty and odd 'tis
To worship the rale flesh and bone.

When Paris loved Leda's fair daughter,
(Oh, he was the broth of a boy,)
Away from her husband he brought her
To lofty and wide streeted Troy;
But I don't intend for to carry
You over the ocean to roam—
But darling, I'd ask you for to marry,
And be Queen of your own little home.

You tell me to wait till the Shrovetide,
But to waste time, you know 'tis a sin,
And, always, in Summer, the love-tide,
Far stronger and warmer, sets in;
Och! look at the birds in the bushes,
See how each has a husband, though coy;
Then, Kitty, away wid your blushes,
And make sure of your own darling boy.

'Tis wondrous strange how great the change since I was in my teens; then I had beat, and a billet-doux, and joined the gayest scenes. But lovers now have ceased to vow; no way they now contrive—to poison, hang, or drown themselves—because I'm thirty-five. Once, if the night was ever so bright, I ne'er abroad could roam, without—"the bliss, the honor, miss, of seeing you safe homo." But now I go, through rain and snow—fatigued, and scarce alive—through all the dark, without a spark—because I'm thirty-five.

The Paris Figaro says: Two friends met the other day on the street. "What a shocking bad hat you wear!" exclaims one of them. "My dear friend, I only wear it because I love my own liberty." "But what on earth has your liberty to do with the hat?" "O, a great deal. My wife has sworn she would never walk out with me as long as I should wear such a hat."

A New Hampshire man told a story about a flock of rooks nine miles long, and so thick that you could not see the sun through it. "Don't believe it," was the reply. "Wal," said the narrator, "you're a stranger, and I don't want to quarrel with you. So, to please you, I'll take off a quarter of a mile from the thinnest part."

The committee appointed by the Massachusetts Legislature to consider the matter of inebriation, have reported to that body. The report gives as the opinion of the committee, that inebriation is a disease, and that it should be treated as a disease in public institutions.

If you want to tell a man in California, says an Eastern paper, that his views are correct and his judgment unimpeachable, you do not say, "Sir, I heartily approve of those sentiments; intellectually they do you honor." You put it in this way: "Sir, your head is level."

A jolly old doctor said that people who were prompt in their payments always recovered in their sickness, as they were good customers, and physicians could not afford to lose them. A good hint, and a sensible doctor.

Women charm, as a general thing, in proportion as they are good. A plain face with a heart behind it, is worth a world of heartless beauty. Gentlemen who have tried both uniformly agree on this.

One of the miseries of human life is being a compositor on a newspaper, and having to insert the marriage of the girl you love, with a man old enough to be your father—he is rich, you are poor.

"Employment so certainly produces cheerfulness," says Bishop Hall, "that I have known a man come home in high spirits from a funeral because he had the management of it."

Anna Dickerson is lecturing in the West upon "Children and Marriage," which induces an impertinent journalist to inquire if the cart hasn't been put before the horse.

"Where shall I put this paper so as to be sure of seeing it to-morrow?" inquired Mary Jane, of her brother Charles. "On the looking-glass," was her brother's reply.

One of the saddest things about human nature is that a man may guide others in the path of life without walking in it himself; that he may be a pilot and yet a castaway.

A French horse-dealer was asked if an animal which he offered for sale was timid. "Not at all," said he; "he often passes many nights by himself in the stable."

An aligator recently killed a fierce Radical negro in the harbor of Norfolk. Prentice says, "Hurrah for the aligators! Let them be protected by the laws."

The House of Representatives of the Alabama Legislature has passed a bill repealing all laws prohibiting marriages between blacks and whites.

"See here, misther," said an Irish lad of seven summers, who was driven up a tree by a dog, "if you don't take that dog away, I'll eat up all your apples."

"Marriage," said an unfortunate husband, "is the churchyard of love." "And you men," replied his wife, "are the grave-diggers."

Many a philosopher who thought he had an exact knowledge of the whole human race has been miserably cheated in the choice of a wife.

An old sailor in Gloucester, (Mass.) said a few days ago: "I began the world with nothing, and have held my own ever since."

Dr. Johnson, once speaking of a quarrelsome fellow, said, "If he had two ideas in his head they would fall out with each other."

It is a remarkable fact, that although common sheep delight in verdant fields, religious flocks are not anxious for green pastors.

Lynching down South is now described as "a man kicking at the United States from the end of a tight-rope."

It costs the United States nearly fourteen thousand dollars to educate every cadet that graduates at West Point.

"Sir, you have broken your promise!" "O, never mind; I can make another just as good!"

The monogram mania has seized all sorts of people, and so has the money-grab mania.

Why is a selfish friend like the letter P? Because the first in pity is the last in help.

$1,000 Reward for its Equal!

THE NEW

WEED SEWING MACHINE!

Just completed, in SOLID STEEL MACHINERY, and combining in ONE the good of ALL!

This most enterprising Company has certainly brought out

THE BEST SEWING MACHINE EVER MADE!

And indeed is the ONLY NEW Sewing Machine, of any name, manufactured for the last eight years. Even a superficial observer can easily see that it surpasses all others, at least in the simplicity and durability of its machinery, and its remarkable EASE OF MOTION AND MANAGEMENT.

It has few pieces, and all of steel. It makes the complete "Lock Stitch," the same on both sides, which will not ravel. Every Machine is warranted to sew from and of course can never be got out of order by "hard sewing." ☞ All repairs free of charge. Prices same as others.

Thinest Lace, to Double Harness Leather!

PLEASE NOTICE.

The claims of the Florence Company for the First Premium at the great Paris Exposition of 1867, though seeming true in letter, is really false in spirit and intent, and calculated greatly to deceive the public. Although it did receive the Silver Medal—that being the highest award given—it was not awarded the first rank! This was awarded the Weed Sewing Machine, and to the WEED only, as being "first in the order of merit." The second place was given to an European Machine, and only the third to the Florence! But the claim of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, at this Fair, is a great outrage, both as to letter and spirit; at least so much of it as pertains to their Gold Medal upon their Family Machine, which, to speak plain, is purely imaginary, they having received—as is well known—their Gold Medal on their "Button-hole Machine," but nothing at all on their "Family Machine;" not even a bronze medal, nor indeed (what is worse) even an "honorable mention." (See official report.) See also, as to the new WEED Sewing Machine, the returns of the State Fairs of Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Hampshire and New York, for 1867, at each of which the NEW WEED "F. F." Sewing Machine was pronounced the BEST, and received the highest premium given. And so also at other Fairs, and indeed wherever the Company shall choose to exhibit the "strong points" of this really magnificent Machine.

S. E. HOAR, General Agent,

Office No. 8 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

H. U. OGBURN & LADY, Woodland, agents for Yolo county, where this Machine will be ever ready to "speak for itself," both to those who see and those who buy. jy4-1y

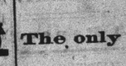
G. J. OVERSHINER,

CARRIAGE AND WAGON



MANUFACTURER,

WOODLAND.

I would call the attention of the public to this well-known shop, where I manufacture to order and keep constantly on hand for sale

Carriages,
Buggies,
Sulkies,
CONCORD-STYLE THOROUGHBRACE

—AND—

LUMBER WAGONS,

—FROM THE—

BEST EASTERN MATERIAL,

Selected by myself!

All work manufactured at my shop is under my own immediate supervision, and up to the requirements of the times, of the latest style, and the most

APPROVED PATTERNS AND FINISH!

I employ no "foreman," for 30 years' experience in the trade—10 years in the Eastern States, 20 years on the Pacific coast, (including 9 years superintendence of the "Pioneer Carriage Shop," Sacramento,) justifies me in assuming that position. Delegating to none the supervision of my work, I am enabled to Guarantee Satisfaction!

My LARGE and SPACIOUS SHOPS enable me to store large quantities of material, and my

SEASONING FACILITIES,

(the only perfect seasoning apparatus on the coast) enable me to defy competition in quality of seasoned work. For verification of above, one has only to examine my facilities in this line, and compare them with those in other shops. I do not pursue the course adopted by many; on the contrary, I season stock before working, and do not put up green stock in wheels, leaving them to season afterwards. I have and keep on hand a large stock of

OAK and HICKORY SPOKES,

of all sizes and the finest material the market affords. Also a large variety of Elm and Locust Hubs.

Having given the Oak Hub a fair trial, I have become convinced that they are unfit for first-class work. Parties who may favor me with their patronage may be assured that

No green oak hubs will be found in my work!

In this connection I would call particular attention to my NEW STYLE LOCUST HUB, turned from my pattern, and imported expressly for this trade and Found only at my Shop!

Also made to order all kinds of

FARMING IMPLEMENTS!

Plows,
Harrows, &c

I have now on hand Harrows of all sizes, with STEEL TEETH, superior to the imported article. In short, I am prepared to fill all orders, from a Wheelbarrow to a Hornet's Nest.

The PAINTING and TRIMMING DEPARTMENT is equal to the best, and particular attention is paid to repairing and trimming old work.

BLACKSMITHING,

In all its branches, is connected with the wood-work, and both are under my supervision.

I have on hand, for sale,

Plow-beams and Handles,
Neckyokes,
Singletrees,
Stretchers,
Clevises,
Fifth-chains,
Lap-Rings,
Harrow-Teeth,
Etc., Etc.

All kinds of Plow and Wagon repairing done with neatness and dispatch. Determined to adhere to my long-established rule of manufacturing only the Best Work from the Best Stock, and having served my time at the two branches of carriage-work, (wood and iron) enables me to guarantee satisfaction in all cases, and to know, as foreman of my own shop, when work is WELL DONE.

To those who have heretofore dealt at other shops, and consequently are unacquainted with my work, I would say GIVE ME A CALL and examine my stock and work. Believing that the surest test of the value of my work can be had in the verdict of those who use it, I respectfully refer the public to

The following named Gentlemen who have and now are using Wagons and Buggies of my manufacture: E. Giddings, J. Langenour, J. Aldrich, Mr. High, H. Rhoades, Mr. Taylor, J. Jones, L. B. Ruggles, Gray & Freeman, J. Garoutte, Fleishman & Kaufman, Ed. Moses, S. & M. Hyman, George Scott, Mr. Ludden, Mr. Olds, Mr. Lusk, Mr. Hurlbut, R. Fritz, J. Lane, Wm. Davidson, and a host of others whose names can be given if required

☞ Thankful for past patronage, I respectfully solicit a continuance of the favor.

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.

The only Known Remedy

—FOR—

Diabetes, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Inflamation of the Kidneys, Catarrh of the Bladder, &c., &c., &c.

For these diseases, it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. Are you troubled with that disgusting pain in the small of the back and through the hips? A teaspoonful a day of Helmbold's Buchu will relieve you.

Physicians and Others

PLEASE NOTICE.

I make no secret of ingredients. Helmbold's Extract Buchu is composed of Buchu, Cubebs and Juniper Berries, selected with care, prepared in vacuo and according to the rules of Pharmacy and Chemistry.

These ingredients are known as the most valuable Diuretics afforded. A Diuretic is that which acts upon the Kidneys. Helmbold's Extract Buchu acts gently. It is pleasant in taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and immediate in its action. For the satisfaction of all, see Medical Properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:

"Buchu. Its odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic, its taste bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, chronic catarrh of the Bladder, morbid irritation of the Bladder and Urethe, diseases of the Prostrate, and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, chronic Rheumatism, cutaneous affections and Dropsy."

For further information see Professor Dewees valuable works on the Practice of Physic. See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. Physic, of Philadelphia. See any and all standard works on Medicine.

Dr. Keyser is a physician of over thirty years experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical college and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold—Dear Sir: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys; and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts. I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves, the simple decoction, tincture fluid extracts; and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Eighteen years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits, and without prejudice or partiality I give yours precedence over all others. I value your Buchu for its effects on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu, or any other proprietory compound of whatever name. Respectfully yours, etc.,

GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D., 140 Wood st.
Pittsburg, Pa., August 11, 1865.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU.

FROM THE LARGEST MANUFACTURING CHEMIST

IN THE WORLD.

I am acquainted with H. T. Helmbold; he occupies the drug store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise. Wm. Weightman, (firm of Powers & Weightman), Manufacturing chemists, Ninth and Brown streets, Phila.

The proprietor has been induced to make this statement from the fact that his remedies, although advertised, are genuine preparations, and knowing that the intelligent refrain from using anything pertaining to Quackery, or the Patent Medicine order—most of which are prepared by self-styled doctors, who are too ignorant to read a physicians' simplest prescription, much less competent to prepare Pharmaceutical preparations. These parties resort to various means of effecting sales, such as copying parts of advertisements of popular remedies and finishing with certificates. The science of medicine stands simple, pure and majestic, having fact for its basis, induction for its pillar, truth alone for its capital.

A Word of Caution.

Health is most important; and the afflicted should not use an advertised medicine, or any remedy, unless its contents or ingredients are known to others besides the manufacturer, or until they are satisfied of the qualifications of the party so offering.
